Ophiopogon japonicus ‘Nana’

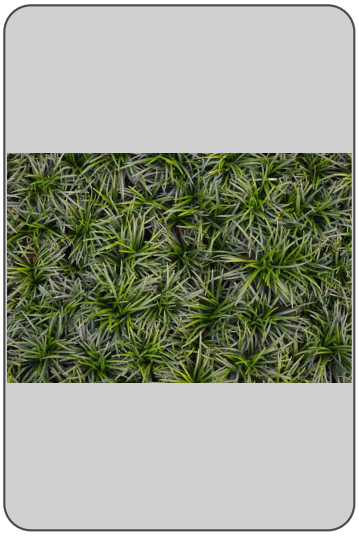

Dwarf Mondo Grass, Nana Mondo Grass

Also known as: Dwarf Lilyturf | Family: Asparagaceae

Water Terrace: 136 TOTAL 136

HABIT

OTHER

LEAF

OTHER

QUICK FACTS

Plant Type: Not stated

Evergreen or deciduous Evergreen

Growth & Size
Rate: Not stated
Size: 4–6 in.
tall and wide (pint-sized clumps)

Sun

Water

Soil
Moist, well-drained, rich soils. Similar to species

Zone 8a
Hardy Zones 6–11. Performs well in Zone 8a as evergreen ground cover. Reports of good results in Zone 8.
Explicit Atlanta notes: Suitable; commonly used

PLANTING NOTES

Establishment
Ideal for borders, edging, containers, mass planting, underplanting. Slow spreading

ORIGIN AND CHARACTERISTICS

Origin
Cultivar of the East Asian species Ophiopogon japonicus.
Garden origin

Form
Dwarf evergreen clumps of deep green narrow leaves. Tiny blue flowers in summer; cobalt-blue berries in fall.
Half the size of the species. Soft graceful form

Foliage
Not stated

Flowers and fruit
Not stated

Bark
Not stated

HEALTH

Health
Low maintenance. No serious problems stated. Same potential issues as species (slugs, excess moisture). (Species notes.)

Symptoms
None stated