Acer mandshuricum
Manchurian Maple

Family: Sapindaceae

OTHER

FALL

LEAF

OTHER

QUICK FACTS

Plant Type: Deciduous tree

Evergreen or deciduous Deciduous

Growth & Size
Rate: Moderate
Size: 30–40 ft (to 100 ft) × 30–40 ft

Sun

Water

Soil
Well-drained preferred

Zone 8a
Excellent for Atlanta Zone 8a. Rare trifoliate maple. Prefer full sun to part shade and well-drained soil. Spectacular fall color. Trifoliate leaves. Rare in cultivation.
High ornamental value. Prefer afternoon shade in the South

PLANTING NOTES

Establishment
Plant in full sun to part shade, well-drained soil. Provide space. Prefer afternoon shade in Atlanta. Spectacular fall color. Trifoliate leaves. Mulch to retain moisture.
Rare ornamental maple

ORIGIN AND CHARACTERISTICS

Origin
Northeast Asia (China, Korea, Russia)

Form
Open crown. Manchurian maple. Trifoliate leaves. Spectacular red-orange-pink fall color. Rare in cultivation. Open crown. High ornamental value. Prefer afternoon shade in the South

Foliage
Trifoliate leaves; red-orange-pink fall color

Flowers and fruit
Inconspicuous; samaras

Bark
Smooth gray

HEALTH

Health
Generally healthy. Possible pests. Samaras for wildlife. Non-toxic. High wildlife value. Low maintenance.
Rare in cultivation

Symptoms
None stated