Rate: Not stated
Size: 3–4 ft (0.9–1.2 m) high × 3–4 ft (0.9–1.2 m) wide.
Compact, spreading

Sun

Water

Soil
Acidic, organically rich, humusy, medium moisture, well-drained soil. Protect from strong winds

Zone 8a
Hardy in USDA Zones 5–8. Suitable for Atlanta Zone 8a. Compact evergreen azalea with clear white flowers. Good for hedges or borders. Attracts butterflies. Winter interest from foliage (may yellow somewhat in winter). Classic azalea form

ORIGIN AND CHARACTERISTICS

Origin
Evergreen azalea of unknown hybridization. Sometimes attributed to Glenn Dale hybrids, but does not appear in corrected Glenn Dale lists. Related to mucronatum hybrids historically grown in Japanese gardens. Introduced into western cultivation historically. Hybridizer unknown

Form
Broadleaf evergreen azalea. Tubular funnel-shaped white flowers (to 2.5 in) in clusters, early to mid-season (late April–May). Mostly single, some semi-double, 10 stamens. Compact spreading habit. Obovate to oblong green leaves (~1¼ in) that may turn yellow over winter. Showy spring bloom. Compact evergreen azalea with clear white flowers. Unknown hybridizer; sometimes linked to Glenn Dale or mucronatum heritage. Reliable spring bloom. Good for smaller spaces or hedges.
Foliage may show some winter yellowing. Attracts butterflies

PLANTING NOTES

Establishment

Plant in part shade with acidic, organic, well-drained soil. Water consistently. Suitable for hedges, borders, or mass plantings. Compact size. Protect from strong winds. Minimal pruning after flowering. Classic white azalea for spring display

Health

Medium maintenance. Tolerates rabbits and deer to some extent. Typical azalea requirements (acid soil, drainage, protection from hot afternoon sun and wind).
Generally reliable when properly sited. Attracts butterflies
