Nyssa sylvatica ‘NSMTF’

Red Splyndor® Sour Gum, Red Splyndor Black Gum

Also known as: Red Splyndor™ | Family: Nyssaceae

Orangerie: 3 TOTAL 3

HABIT

FALL

LEAF

OTHER

QUICK FACTS

Plant Type: Not stated

Evergreen or deciduous
Selected at Moon’s Tree Farm, Loganville, Georgia. Species native to Georgia. Performs in Zone 4–8/9. Georgia origin and local nursery production support strong Zone 8a suitability. Explicit Atlanta long-term data: Not stated beyond selection site

Growth & Size
Rate: Not stated
Size: 30–50 ft tall by 20–40 ft wide. Pyramidal when young, maturing to rounded.
Mid-range applied

Sun

Water

Soil
Prefers moist, well-drained, acidic soils; tolerates wet soils, clay, sandy, and some drought

Zone 8a
Selected at Moon’s Tree Farm, Loganville, Georgia. Species native to Georgia. Performs in Zone 4–8/9. Georgia origin and local nursery production support strong Zone 8a suitability. Explicit Atlanta long-term data: Not stated beyond selection site

ORIGIN AND CHARACTERISTICS

Origin
Chance seedling selection by Dwayne Moon, Moon’s Tree Farm, Loganville, GA (2010 planting). Garden origin of native species

Form
Pyramidal growth habit with strong central leader and full scaffolding branches. Deep dark lustrous green summer foliage turning brilliant red in fall. Pollinator magnet. Sets some fruit. Fast-growing with tight form. Trademark Red Splyndor®

Foliage
Not stated

Flowers and fruit
Not stated

Bark
Not stated

PLANTING NOTES

Establishment
Tolerates wet and drought once established. Easy to grow. Suitable for shade, specimen, rain gardens

HEALTH

Health
Low maintenance. Scale, rust, canker, and leaf spots can be occasional problems (species-level). Typically clean foliage. No serious problems stated for the cultivar

Symptoms
None stated