Atlanta Botanical Garden - Expansion

Agarista populifolia Taylors Treasure

Leprechaun Dwarf Agarista

Also known as: Taylor's Treasure | Family: Ericaceae

Rockery: 35 | Wonderland: 11 | Overlook: 11 | Orangerie: 34 | Beltline: 81 | TOTAL 172

HABIT

Not available

FALL

LEAF

FLOWER

QUICK FACTS

Plant type
Tree

Evergreen or deciduous
- Compact evergreen shrub. Upright, spreading branching. Smaller and more compact than the species (USPP13347P2; Plant Lust)

Growth & Size
Rate: Not stated
Size: - 3–5 ft tall × 2–4 ft wide (Plant Lust; Garden Center Marketing). - Compact form of the species (USPP13347P2).

Soil
Not stated

Sun

Water

Zone 8a
Not stated

Native
- Cultivar of Agarista populifolia, which is native to the southeastern United States (FL, GA, SC, AL) (NC State; POWO). - Discovered as an open-pollinated seedling at Taylor's Nursery, Semmes, AL (USPP13347P2).

ORIGIN AND CHARACTERISTICS

Origin
Not stated

Form
- Compact evergreen shrub. Upright, spreading branching. Smaller and more compact than the species (USPP13347P2; Plant Lust)

Foliage
Not stated

Flowers and fruit
Not stated

Bark
- Not stated

PLANTING NOTES

Siting
Not stated

Soil prep
Not stated

Depth & spacing
Not stated

Best planting season
Not stated

Establishment
- Plant in moist, acidic soil in part shade. Compact habit requires less pruning than the species (USPP13347P2)

HEALTH

Problem	Symptoms
Health	- High severity poison characteristics for the species. Foliage poisonous. - Heat and humidity tolerant (Plant Lust)